Aнна Sokolov, business to school liaison at Albany Options School, sent in this photo. She writes: "On Tuesday, April 17, Harts Nursery gave a presentation to Albany Options School about gardening and horticulture to celebrate April as National Gardening Month. Afterwards, they gave every student the opportunity to plant their own tomato plant to take home with them. Pictured are middle school students Bayli Roberts, left, and Timothy Heward and their new tomato plants. Thank you so much, Harts Nursery for this wonderful opportunity, from all of us here at Albany Options School!" (You may submit your favorite snapshot taken since April 1 to news@dhonline.com. Please include your name, address and daytime phone number as well as names of those pictured and ages if they're children.)
